

VISITACION VALLEY

LIGHT FESTIVAL

The Visitacion Valley Light Festival brings illuminated interactive art from local artists to the Visitacion Valley Greenway, a gem of San Francisco's parks in a historically underserved neighborhood.

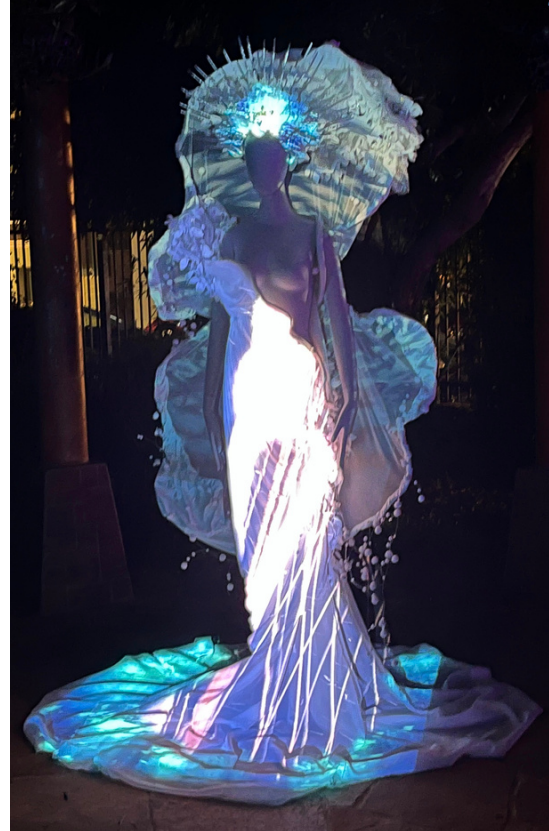

The event also features live music, local history presentations, and outreach from SFFD, SFMTA, CHP, and other organizations.

VVLF is part of a larger effort to create community and promote local business on the Leland Avenue commercial corridor and throughout the Valley.

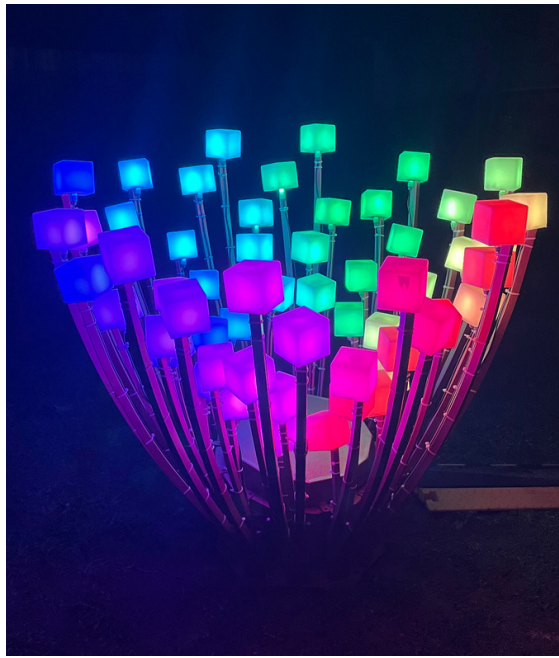

Last year's event boasted over 20 works by local artists, 700+ attendees, a demonstration crosswalk by SFMTA, three-piece live jazz band, and more fun surprises.

This year we want to bring more art and hold the event over two nights, enabling artists to bring more intricate work and expanding access for the community to enjoy the event.

VVLF seeks funding for permits, a safe and reusable pathway lighting system, a generator-free power grid, and overnight security to enable a multi-night event.

VVLF's setting is the Visitation Valley Greenway, a series of adjacent parks rising up the valley. It is a link in the Crosstown Trail, which has brought people from all over the world to the neighborhood. VVLF will illuminate the four southern parks in a free, family-friendly public event:

- Hans Schiller Plaza: Gateway to the Greenway from Leland Avenue, next to popular café Mission Blue and other local businesses. Lawns for picnics and a performance stage with seating.

- Community Garden: greenhouses and gardening plots for local residents and youth programs, alongside a lushly canopied walking path
- Herb Garden: Patio areas, terraced herb garden, beautiful lookout with views of San Bruno Mountain
- Children's Play Garden: Popular local playground, lawn area for dog walks and picnics, forested area
